As we look backward over the years we have passed here, they become dearer to us, because of the friendships we have formed and the joys and sorrows we have shared. Now as we are about to leave W.C. all our memories blend and form a purple haze of happiness - if only we could live such days forever! - That is impossible, but within these pages we shall re-create one year that we may play it again and again on memory's stage. And may the ideals of our dear college breathe thru this book and forever inspire us as we thumb its pages.

President J. Edwin Jay

The Dedication

There was once a man who dreamed of a greater Wilmington College. In a dream he saw new buildings, a greater endowment, a larger faculty and student body, and athletic teams that would carry W. C.'s name across the continent. ¶ Then a sturdy workman brought it all about and caused the dream to be realized. ¶ To this man who was and is both the dreamer and the workman; to the dreamer who made his dream come true; to President J. Edwin Jay, the Class of Nineteen Twenty-Three affectionately dedicates this Wilmingtonian.

History of Wilmingtonian

The Wilmingtonian has now been published each year for a student generation. In 1920 the first Wilmingtonian of this series was published by the senior class of that year.

The 1920 Wilmingtonian was a fine book and met with the hearty approval of the whole school. The staff however, labored under great difficulties due to the fact that such an elaborate annual had not been published for several years. Consequently they were inexperienced and did not have the advantage of preceding books to guide them and were unable to profit by the mistakes of others. But true worth is best appreciated when it meets difficulties and overcomes them. Richard Larkin and Ralph Boring are to be congratulated on the book they produced.

The next year a larger and more complete annual was gotten out under the leadership of Clyde Milner and Howard Orr. The book showed a great development over its predecessor and illustrated that an editor can profit by the mistakes of others. This year the faculty and upper classes were paneled, and the pages were printed in two colors. The athletic section was enlarged showing outlined figures of football and basketball letter men.

The 1922 Wilmingtonian (edited by Elizabeth Johns with Neil Mounts as business manager) proved to be still larger and better than ever before. This book featured a colored view section and an alumni roster. The athletic department was developed to a still greater extent, having become one of the most attractive divisions of the annual. The section representing organizations was bettered pictorially altho it suffered from a literary standpoint.

All the Wilmingtonians have faithfully reproduced the spirit of W. C. and the school may be justly proud of such a series of publications.

O gateway! You are the gateway
To the place we love;
And after years of seeing you,
You become the gateway to our heart.

What could be more beautiful?
What memory be more lasting?
What means more nearly W. C. to us?
Revered old building, than you.

Among the memories that linger longest
Are those of athletic games;
And with the thots of our great big teams
We see our new Gymnasium.

Twin Ash, you place of pleasant memories,
How many girls? How many boys?
Remember you with joy,
And say "Within those dear old walls
My heart found its true love."

South Hall is the place of all places
We never would want to forget;
It has the initials there, we don't doubt, yet
Of all the boys the College would not forget.

Bailey Hall is almost like "Bitter-sweet,"
To some it is bitter; to some it is sweet;
But whether it's bitter, or whether it's sweet,
Thy fumes will linger with us.

Betty Baugh

Honor Students

Russell S. Linton

The Sigma Zeta Cup is given to the student who has made the best all round record during his college course. This year the faculty committee awarded the cup to Russell S. Linton.

Linton has been a good student having made almost an "A" average and has been active in student affairs, having been President of the class, the Y. M. C. A., the Forensic, and a member of both the Pep and Wilmingtonian staffs.

He was also interested in music, being a member of the varsity quartet. Linton is not an athletic letter man but he was interested in all sports and took an active part.

Elizabeth Baugh

Elizabeth "Betty" Baugh was the winner of the Delta Omega Theta Cup for girls.

"Betty" has made an enviable record during her college course. Her scholastic standing has been high and she has been an active participant in school events, being the leader in several societies.

She has especially proven herself to be a versatile musician and was President of the Glee Club during her last year in school.

"Betty" was the winner of the girls' tennis tournament in her sophomore year. In proof of her social standing, she won the election as the most popular girl in school.

The Memory of the Heart

If stores of dry and learned lore we gain
We keep them in the memory of the brain;
Names, things, and facts—what'er we knowledge call—
There is the common ledger for them all;
And images on this cold surface traced
Make slight impression and are soon effaced.
But we've a page, more glowing and more bright
On which our friendship and our love to write;
That these may never from the soul depart,
We trust them to the memory of the heart.
There is no dimming, no effacement there,
Each new pulsation keeps the record dear;
Warm, golden letters all the tablet fill,
Nor lose their lustre till the heart stands still.

—Daniel Webster.

A Senior's Prayer

We have spent four years together,
Four years of mimic life;
We have lived and loved and labored here
With just enough of strife.
To seem as shadows in a picture
That brings out the colors rife.

May this old college e'er be dear
To us, who've trekked its paths;
May we become more dear to her,
As farther down the strands
She finds us winning laurel wreaths
From Fame's right royal hands.

Wherever fate shall beckon us;
To what goal fair fame shall lead;
May the spirit ever guide us,
Which shall keep us humbles thanes;
And however life rewards us
May we meet her just the same.

ROY KELSEY, A.B.

Due to the fact that it was impossible to get the photograph of Mr. Kelsey we were not able to print his picture.

Freshmen

THE FRESHMAN CLASS

Once again the incoming Freshman Class has broken the record for numbers and they have quickly become a part of the College. Altho each person likes to look back to the record of his own class and think that it has been the biggest and best, yet we are content to let each oncoming Freshman Class set a new record. For our interest is primarily in the college and not in any one class or organization.

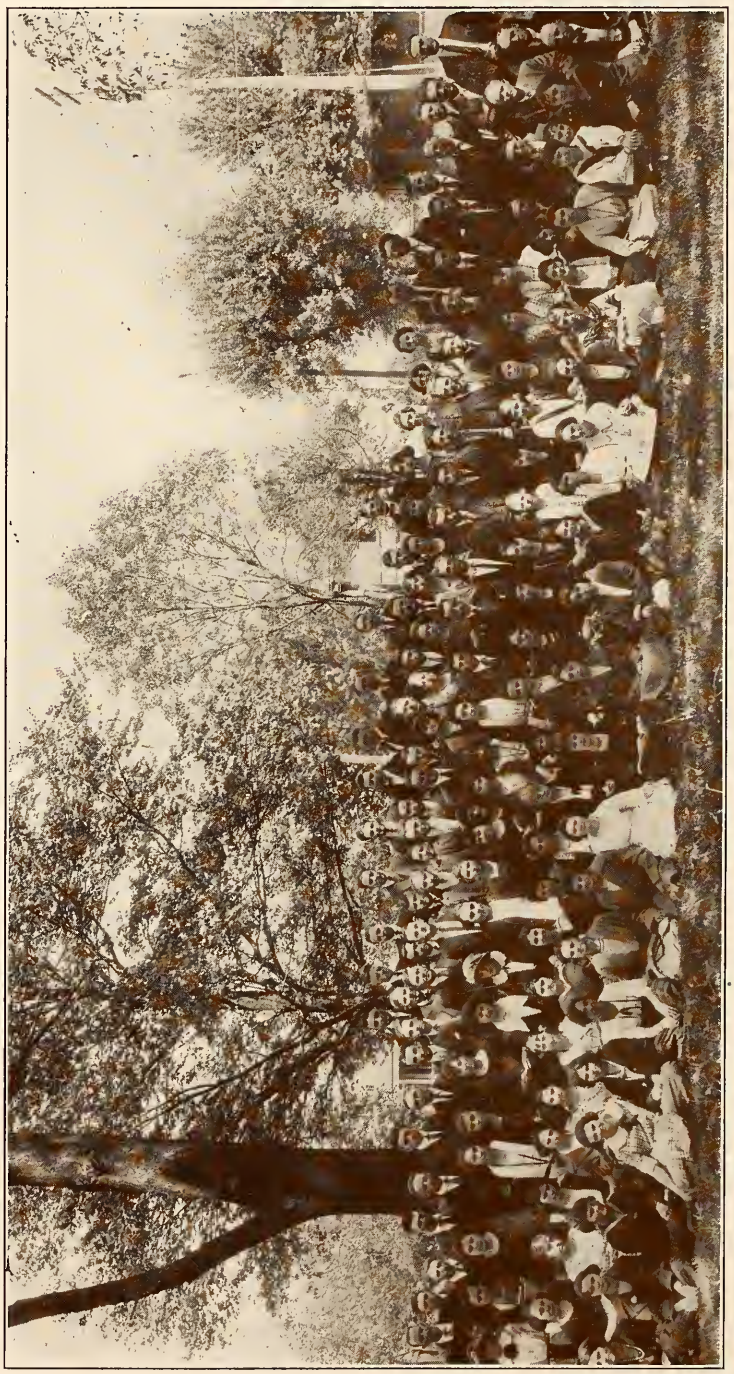
Normal



The Spring Termers

The Spring Term

Each spring there comes into our midst a number of people who are interested both in Normal and Collegiate work, who perhaps have not found it possible to be in college during the winter months. These people come to us with such earnest intent and ambition that their time spent here is bound to be worth while not only to themselves but to the members of the student body with whom they associate.

Each year we welcome them whole-heartedly; first of all, because we like them; then because they open the eyes of the regular students to the opportunities which often they fail to appreciate; and because through experience many of them have attained a greater knowledge of life, which in itself demands respect.

The Second Year Normal Class

To this section of the Normal Department belong those students who take a two year normal course and receive for such, a State Elementary Certificate. This course gives the teacher a better background which is necessary for successful teaching.

The same amount of professional training is required as of the one year "normals," and the rest is made up of work which will broaden the prospective teacher's appreciation of the best things in literature, art, history, etc. Some professional training is given in the second year also, but it is of a more general character than the previous year.

The Purpose of the Normal Department

In this age of development and specialization we find in our College a Department of Education in which students receive such training as is needed to teach others.

When many people think of a "Normal Education" they think only of the acquisition of a number of rules, methods, and principles, concerning the teaching of subject matter to other individuals. If they would stop to think a moment they would realize that even the same subject matter cannot be taught the same way invariably—changing conditions and attitudes, ways of living, difference in people themselves will not permit it.

What, first of all, is education? Someone has said: "Education is life itself." May we not consider also a Normal Education from this point of view? We soon come to believe that teachers may teach ways of living and ways of thinking as well as methods of acquiring subject matter. With this conception of education those people who have had a superficial idea of what it meant, will be awakened to the wonderful opportunities which teachers have of developing in those pupils with whom they come in contact, certain standards and ideals of life, good health habits, and habits of diligence and industry—things which are invaluable. For the good citizen is first of all a good workman.

In connection with the lessons to be learned from books may be taught thoroughness, honesty, and orderliness—each being types of knowledge that are necessary.

Methods of teaching must be adapted to the needs of the pupils, for after all, it is their lives which are in the making and they must live in the kingdom of their own thoughts all the days of their life.

In this department are given two Elementary Courses: the one- and two-year Normal; and the High School Normal, which is given in connection with the regular four years course.

One Year Normal Class

The First Year Normal Group is comprised of those students who are taking in one course such work as will entitle them to a County Elementary Certificate.

The Extension Department

The Extension Department of Wilmington College began functioning in September, 1917, being organized for the purpose of coping with a state law requiring higher educational attainments for the teachers of Ohio.

The most feasible plan has proven to be that of carrying the regular class room work out into the various vicinities where the demand has warranted the organizing of a class. Regular faculty members teach both normal and collegiate subjects in these classes which meet for two hours once a week for thirty weeks.

At present twenty-three centers are being served with a total enrollment of more than two hundred and fifty students which is composed of teachers, prospective teachers, and citizens interested in the course.

Through this department, the existence of Wilmington College has been disseminated throughout the counties of this section of the state, and as a result our regular college enrollment has been increased and our phenomenal summer school attendance sustained.

Student Council

The system of student government, which was inaugurated by the dormitory girls of the College in the fall of 1921, has proven very successful. A committee of five girls, previously appointed by the body of the dormitory girls, drew up and presented a set of rules which were accepted by the students. These rules govern the number of hours a girl may have out at night; the time for quiet hours, and the time to go to bed.

The point system is used, that is: so many points are given for certain misdemeanors. When a certain number of points have been given to a girl by the proctors, she has to appear before the council and they decide what the punishment is to be.

The council consists of five girls, elected at the first of each semester by the girls from the various dormitories. Student government has been a very successful and satisfactory means of governing the girls.

Pep Staff

"Pep" Staff

Russell Clevenger, founder of the Boosters Club and the first editor of Pep, conceived the idea of a Wilmington College paper. The college had previously published "The Wilmingtonian" but due to the condition produced in all small colleges during the war, it had ceased to be published. The paper was now reorganized on a new basis—that is with the Boosters Club behind it. This method has redounded to the advantage of both community and college.

Clevenger passed on to his successor, Harold M. Jay, a well organized and efficient publication. After a very commendable year of broadcasting college spirit and public welfare, Jay handed the keys to the "heart of the community" to Raymond Stratton.

With the cooperation of his industrious staff, pictured on the opposite page, Stratton has been able to carry on the high standards set by his predecessors.

Y. M. C. A.

The college Y. M. C. A. is somewhat different from what one usually has in mind when the name Y. M. C. A. is mentioned. It does not emphasize some of the side features so noticeable in city associations. Physical training, athletics and social functions are admirably taken care of in other phases of college life. So the Y. M. is limited to two basic purposes back of all Christian Associations: that of furnishing a means of spiritual satisfaction and religious expression.

The Young Men's Christian Association is that department of the college to which a young man comes to connect up Christianity with other branches of knowledge—where he comes to face the truth in regard to the world about him and concerning his place in relation to it. Here he gets a world outlook, he keeps in touch with world movements and learns to accept his share of some big enterprise.

The training which a worker in one of the executive committees gets is always invaluable to him. The executive force is divided into a number of departments: Bible study, missions, international relations, advertisement, social, employment, finance, attendance, membership, etc. At the head of each department is placed a man who early acquires that element so needed in leadership; a sense of responsibility. The chairman of these different departments meet together periodically, and at that time learn how to work out problems together.

For all those who show any inclination, the chance is afforded for growth by becoming deeply interested in something outside of and bigger than his own little personal problems. In the Y. M. C. A. a man comes to the realization of his three-fold duty: duty to himself, duty to society, and duty to his God. It does not stop with this, but what is more important, he learns to put his beliefs into actions, to express his convictions in terms of work.

Y. W. C. A.

The Y. W. C. A. of Wilmington College is interested in the development of the spiritual, intellectual, and physical welfare of every young woman enrolled. Every college woman sooner or later comes to the realization that there are some things which she should make a part of herself if she is to derive the most from life—and it is these standards and ideals and aims that the Y. W. C. A. wishes to impress upon and develop within those people with whom they come in contact.

To lead to a belief in Jesus Christ, to stand for the truth, to be guided by a spirit of love and service, to have a worthy aim in life, to be a promoter of Christian fellowship in the home, in the home community, and on the campus, to do their best in whatever place in life they find themselves, to strengthen the student's faith in God and men—these are some of the objectives of the Y. W.

Meetings are held each Wednesday morning in the Y. W. C. A. parlor and a good message is always presented. The Y. W. exists to help the girls to get the most out of their college life, to help them solve their problems, and to become the most successful woman possible.

The Science Club

The Science Club was organized for the purpose of promoting the scientific spirit among those who were so inclined. The basis for membership is that the person shall be majoring in some science, as: Chemistry, Biology, Domestic Science, etc.; also the prospective member must be a good student.

The meetings of the club have been very helpful to the members, for all branches of science and invention are discussed so that the members are kept in touch with all the departments of science. Occasionally an outside speaker is invited in to present some special subject. The public is frequently invited to attend meetings of this latter type in order that they may get an idea of what the club is doing.

Members of the faculty who teach science are members ex-officio. Thus they form a constant nucleus around whom the club is reorganized every year.

The Thalian

To fulfill the need of greater accomplishments along literary lines in our school, the Thalian dramatic club was organized on December 8, 1920. The purpose of this club is the intellectual advancement of its members and united effort toward the higher development of dramatic and literary interests. This society is honorary insofar as its membership is, in part, based upon scholastic standing. At the present time the club has a membership of nineteen.

At the regular meetings of this organization, held twice each month, a study is made of current topics on literary and dramatic interests. Programs are planned which give the members opportunity for active participation in the workings of the club. Members of Thalian have taken active part in the different dramatic efforts of the school throughout the year. Each member has taken a keen interest in the organization and has joined with her fellow-members to make Thalian stand for all that is highest and best in literary and dramatic achievement.

Varsity Quartette

The quartette represented the college at a number of different affairs, and did so very creditably. It was under the personal direction of Miss Maddock.

The girls' athletic association was organized during the past year under the leadership of Miss White, the girls' coach. The object of the association is to establish a system whereby girls may win athletic letters and sweaters. It is run on the point system and when a girl wins a certain number of points she receives a sweater and letter. The points are given for such sports as: tennis, basketball, baseball, and hiking.

Girls' Glee Club

The Girls' Glee Club was selected by Miss Maddock from the large number of girls who tried out for a place. Consequently she secured some excellent voices.

The club met once a week for practice under the driection of Miss Maddock; a girl who did not attend practice was fined unless she could present a reasonable excuse. The concert was given in the College Gymnasium on March 14. The program consisted both of choral and solo numbers.

The proceeds from the concert were applied to the fund for the chapel song books. The Glee Club also furnishes the music for the Baccalaureate services.

Pan-Hellenic Council

The Pan-Hellenic Council is an organization made up of representatives from each Greek Letter organization in college. Its purpose is to adopt and enforce certain regulations as: the time when parties involving freshmen shall be held; time of pledging season; eligible people, and anything else which may come up if it effects the common interests of the groups represented. The reason for its formation was to promote more harmonious relations between the Greek organizations.

The Ex-Presidents of W. C.

The first president of the college under the Quaker regime was Louis A. Estes, who served for three years. Estes built a firm foundation for later men to erect the structure on, but he felt that the task should be undertaken by a younger man.

The burden fell on the shoulders of Benjamin Trueblood in 1874. Trueblood being a young and talented man poured his enthusiasm and vigor into the school for five years. His ability is also shown by his record after leaving the college. He was later President of Penn, but soon turned his attention to Peace and Arbitration. He became secretary of the American Peace Association and participated in the formation of The Hague Tribunal.

David W. Dennis was the next guider of the destinies of the college. He served for two years and then withdrew to continue his studies. Some years later he became a member of Earlham's faculty.

With Trueblood, Untank came to Wilmington and into his hands the managerial reins now fell. For seven years he had been a teacher in the college and now he was destined to guide it for twenty-two. This was a period of steady healthy growth. After his long period of service he surveyed his work and decided that some one else could now do more than he. So he retired to spend the rest of his life on his farm at Webster, Ind.

Albert J. Brown, a Quaker minister and a graduate of Leland Stanford University, became president in 1903. He purchased new property, increased the endowment, and raised the school to a point where it gained collegiate recognition.

Samuel H. Hodgins became president in 1913 and continued the material progress of the school for two years. But the lure of business life soon lead him into that field and he became a representative of the Farquhar Furnace Co. All the ex-presidents with his exception are now deceased.

COACH "CHICK" HARPER

Our Cheer Leaders

Hadley and Howe have been our cheer leaders for two years and they certainly have worked overtime at the job. Hadley was elected by the students and selected Howe as his assistant. Hadley has received a "W" and a sweater for his services but a similar award has not as yet been made to Howe.

No one can ever forget those white clad cheer leaders with "Yell" across the front of their sweaters; and every time a W. C. student of the year '22-'23 sees a Gold Dust advertisement memories of W. C. athletic games and cheer leaders will come hurrying to his mind.

Athletic Foreword

Just as a well rounded man will have developed his athletic prowess and ideals to a certain standard; so, in accord with this inherent character of man, Wilmington College has endeavored to develop the Athletic Department of the school. As in the man physical development is to better fit him for his work, so in the school athletics are to round out the student life and development.

The season that is passed has been unique in many respects, but it proved the old adage that life goes by opposites. For the season was marked by some deplorable events but in the end other things happened which put W. C.'s athletics on the highest plane they have ever enjoyed.

May W. C. students always be able to look over their past season's record with the same amount of justifiable pride as they can at the close of '22-'23.

The Season's Review

Almost the entire squad of 1921 assembled with additional material during the last week of August to make ready for the hardest schedule in Quaker history.

Coach "Chick" Harper and his men worked hard thru extremely hot weather and other difficulties realizing the heavy games ahead and the "unbeatable" reputation gained the previous year required it.

The opening game was played with Butler at Indianapolis. The team showed marked improvement over the year before, altho Butler won by making a couple of drop kicks, making the score 6 to 0. The two hundred Wilmington rooters came home well satisfied and hopeful for the rest of the season.

The following week, September 30, Wilmington journeyed to Michigan and was defeated by Detroit University 7 to 0. The Quakers played superior football and gained fame among the Detroit fans.

The third game was played at Dennison the following week. The men were handicapped because of injuries received in the two previous games. Denison won 14 to 3.

The first victory was won from Transylvania 52 to 0 on the Wilmington gridiron. The big Green team then won from Kentucky Wesleyan 31 to 3.

The men then journeyed to Berea and annexed their third victory 16 to 7. Because of some rumors that the men were breaking training Coach Harper scheduled two games to be played during one week-end. The team won at Salem, W. Va., Friday, November 10, by a score of 12 to 0; and at Georgetown the next day 22 to 7.

The endurance displayed in these two games was convincing enough that the team was worthy of Wilmington's support.

Dayton University next suffered a 3 to 0 defeat at Wilmington on a muddy field.

The last game of the season was played at Cleveland with St. Ignatius. All dope was upset and Wilmington was defeated 31 to 9.

The Butler Game

After a month of grinding practice the day finally arrived—Butler who had gone thru the season of 1921 without a defeat and Wilmington with a similar record were to play their opening game.

Two hundred rooters journeyed to Indianapolis and watched their team play hard football—they saw them hold Butler on the one-yard line, and saw Wilmington carry the ball down the field by a series of off tackle bucks to the one-yard line—then lose the breaks of the game and the score. The Green and White line held Butler to three first downs. Altho Harper's backs were able to earn eight first downs they were unable to score. Butler's dropkicker placed two over the bar, leaving the score 6 to 0. The team was disappointed but not discouraged. They had played a wonderful game against a wonderful team as was shown later when Butler defeated Illinois 6 to 0.

The Detroit Game

The hardest fought game of the year was the one at Detroit. The game was played mostly in the center of the field. It was a punting duel which showed again the wonderful work of Wilmington's line that was opposing the Detroit line of All-American mention. Harper's backs played twice as aggressive a game as Detroit's making ten first downs to their five.

With all their spirit, fight, and brawn—it seemed that Wilmington was doomed to lose. In the third quarter a break gave Detroit a touchdown.

The Quakers worked fast and made several large gains—but the final score remained 7 to 0. Such a game is seldom fought and the team will long cherish its memory.

The Denison Game

On an ideal football day in Denison's ideal stadium, while Wilmington rooters were singing the praises of the Green and White the third heart breaker was handed to the "Fighting Quakers." A hard game—great hope—a supreme effort—and defeat.

There was no score in the first half. A few exchanges of punts, then a spectacular holding for four downs of the Baptists on our one-yard line. Then followed a fast march down the field by Wilmington and Denison duplicated Wilmington's defense of her goal.

The first score was made by Wilmington, a forty-yard dropkick, at the beginning of the second half. Denison immediately followed with a long end run and a thirty-yard pass for a touchdown. Wilmington played vicious football but was unable to tip the score. Denison made their second touchdown from a Wilmington fumble, making the final score 14 to 3.

The Quakers seemed doomed to lose; they played superior football at times but were unable to take advantage of the breaks. Wilmington made fourteen first downs to the Baptists' seven.

The Transylvania Game

The big home-coming game with the southern team left a sweeter taste—which was badly needed. The squad had suffered three defeats almost by the toss of a coin —and the Kentucky team had no chance to win.

The game was a sensational exhibition of Wilmington's speedy and elusive ground gainers. The sidestepping and line plunging of the Quaker backs completely outclassed their rivals. Transylvania put up a game fight until the end which kept Wilmington on her toes. Most of the scoring was done by Shaw.

The Kentucky Wesleyan Game

Kentucky Wesleyan came up from the South with a stronger aggregation than the one of the week before. However Wilmington easily defeated them 31 to 3.

The local fans were well pleased with the game. They will remember Bonawitz's consistent work at end; James' knifing game at tackle and the sensational Shaw. Stroup also found his stride.

The game was not fast and the Wilmington team received heavy coaching the next week.

The Baldwin-Wallace Game

A little over confident Wilmington journeyed to Berea and met the big up-state team in a combat which was not up to the Quaker standard. A few sensational plays by the backfield and some strong streaks in the line left Wilmington with the long end of a 16 to 7 score. As a whole the team played poor football and the game was a lesson for better team work.

The Salem Game

Salem, W. Va., in the middle of the foothills, is the home of a small Baptist college with lots of school spirit and lots of athletics. The team was received there late Thursday night by the whole student body and entertained the team with Wilmington and Salem songs and yells. The game was played on a biased undersized field, a creek ran across one corner which made playing on the whole field practically impossible. As a result of this strange field Wilmington was able to bring back only two touchdowns, one made by Shaw and the other on a pass to Bonawitz.

The Georgetown Game

After the hard game at Salem and an all night ride W. C.'s tired gridders arrived at that good old slow moving town in Kentucky. The game was hard fought from the beginning but Wilmington was always on the aggressive and took advantage of the breaks while winning 22 to 7. Bud Thompson, the star tackle, scored the first touchdown by running back a blocked punt 30 yards. Mike Crohan's 47-yard dropkick was another feature of the game. Near the end of the game the men became fatigued due to their hard game the day before and Gorgetown was able to score by forward passes.

The Dayton Game

On a wet day and on a slow, muddy field, Dayton met Wilmington with the memory of last year's defeat still fresh in their minds.

The bad day did not diminish the crowd which witnessed the hard fought game. Dayton threatened to score once when they completed two long passes, but the quaker line held tight. The game was played mostly in Catholic territory; five times W. C. tried for field goals and once White was successful. This was the only score of the game which W. C. won 3 to 0.

The St. Ignatius Game

The last game of the season was an upset to the dopesters since Dayton had beaten the Saints. A score of 31 points was rolled up by the Saints in the first half. This was probably due to lack of training and over confidence on the part of Wilmington.

The team showed a great comeback in the last half but the lead was too great to overcome. So the game ended with the Green and White on the short end of a 31 to 9 score.

The school cannot give the men, who spent so much of their time in working for her glory, enough honor. Those are also worthy of the love of their Alma Mater who were not able to make the team but practiced all season and made the team possible.

Basket Ball Season

The blood was still fresh on the retired pigskin when Coach Harper made his first call for basketeers. Seven letter men, Dodd, who is captain of this year's team; Kurtzhalz, Nowald, Wood, Chance, Doughman, and Farquhar, together with a valuable squad of recruits, such as: Feike, Shaw, James, Brown and Stephens, gave their support in answer to Harper's call.

The first game of the season was easily taken into camp. Miami-Jacobs was defeated by a score of 41 to 11. Then started the line of defeats which stimulated hard training and coaching which produced the winning team of the close of the season.

Coach Bolen, coming to the squad from Indiana State University, to take Coach Harper's place, met the team as they started on their Hoosier trip. The trip was most discouraging to "Shifty" Bolen, as a poor style of basketball was displayed on the entire trip.

After a couple of weeks at home with the team Coach Bolen's squad commenced to show marked improvement. Zeigler and Fisher were added to the roll and Wilmington College's basketball team began to gain recognition as one of the best in the state.

The success of the team is marked by its improvement during the season. This improvement is illustrated by the defeat of Indiana State Normal which team had proved a stumbling block during the Hoosier trip earlier in the season.

Then Dayton was defeated on her own floor 28 to 18. This was the first defeat Dayton had suffered at home for four years. Antioch was taken into camp on her own floor 34-22, and Cedarville was played to a 47-1 defeat. Dope had given Marshall College great preference—they were defeated by an easy margin. The team suffered a lamentable defeat at Baldwin-Wallace and closed the season by playing Ashland as the night-cap of the Clinton County Tournament.

The men have worked constantly under "Shifty" Bolen and have found in him an ideal coach. The season of 1923 is the best on record for the Green and White.

The men began training on April 12, after the Spring Vacation. The lid was pried off by a couple of games with Miami on consecutive days. Wilmington lost the first game but came back strong in the second and won it handily. Then followed a fast and sensational game with Wittenburg in which old W. C. was the victor.

FARQUHAR

Next came our annual games with Cedarville and Antioch, which resulted in two victories and one defeat. Antioch being able to win on her own stamping ground with the assistance of a muddy field. The most sensational and best game of the season was with Capitol University of Columbus, when they nosed the Quakers out 2-1. This was considered the feature game of the season.

Tennis 1922

Tennis took on a new form in 1922. Instead of the usual intramural tournament, those interested in the racquet sport ventured outside to conquer new worlds. The team was small consisting of Mounts, a former winner of the tournament, and Farquhar, the winner of the tournament in '20 and '21.

Three inter-collegiate meets were played: two with Antioch and one with the University of Dayton.

Record

Antioch 2—Wilmington 1; Farquhar won his singles.
Dayton 2—Wilmington 1; Mounts won his singles.
Antioch 2—Wilmington 1; Mounts won his singles.

The Season

The Girls' Basketball season of '22-'23 has proven very successful altho they carried the small end of the score quite often. It was successful in that the girls did not only play to win the big end of the score but also to play a real sportsmanlike game.

It would be impossible to buy from any of the girls, who have taken part in basketball, the close fellowship which this sport has produced among the squad. There is a feeling among these girls which it is impossible to get in any way except through a clean athletic spirit, such as was shown by the girls.

Even though it was impossible for each girl to win a letter, the ones who did not are to be complimented on the spirit and interest they have shown this year.

R. CARTER

GREEN

The squad has a bright future ahead of it for next year if the girls develop their possibilities as much next year as t ey have in the one that is past under the very capable coaching of Miss White.

Due to various hindrances the girls did not begin practicing until rather late. The first game was played at Cedarville with only two practices previous to the game. The girls did some very fine playing for the small amount of practice which they had and also being handicapped by playing on such a small court. But instead of being discouraged by being forced to carry home the small end of the score they were instilled with a feeling of getting down to work and then to keep it up the rest of the season. Quite a bit of skill was displayed during the season; and at the last the team was playing a very superior brand of ball.

To Last Year's Seniors

Alone sits Time on mountain peak most grand,
And looks upon the hour glass in his hand.
Afar he looks into the valley below
And sees the people moving to and fro.
He sees broad fields and cities fair
Filled with the throb of life, and watched with care.
Across the valley far he sees a band
Of stalwart pilgrims to the promised land.
He sees them crowd along the foothill way
Which o'er the mountains in a long line lay.
He sees them stop in shady groves to rest
While others hurrying strive to lead the quest.
A shady woodland now engulfs the band,
Time yawns and turns the hour glass in his hand.
Again he looks and nearer to the top
He sees the band press on without a stop.
Their numbers now are smaller than before,
But on they strive, the pathway to explore.
Their gaze is ever towards the sky,
They move on up toward the mountain high.
Their leaders now are mounting to the crest
And reaching down they strive to help the rest.
In golden sunshine now their banners gleam
And on the crest their watchfires are seen.
Time shades his eyes and almost hears their shout
While within his golden glass the sands run out.

—Ida Crum.

Farmers' Week

The pictures above show some of the men and women who took advantage of Farmers' Week at Wilmington College.

One picture is almost unique. It represents the people eating a watermelon which ripened in Clinton County during December. Here are the men eating watermelon while snow lies on the ground. The College certainly is introducing improved methods.

For the past two years Wilmington College has been offering a week's course in practical farming methods. The regular college faculty is a part of this special faculty but other men who are specialists in their line are called in to give courses.

The plan is evidently considered a success by the farmers for they took advantage of the course in much greater numbers than ever before. The course was much improved and will continue to be improved as long as such a keen interest is manifested.

The Big Rock

The editor has often wondered about the "Big Rock" which stands in front of the Main Building, and just by chance he found an explanation. Here it is:

The class of 1906 gave it as a memorial to the College. It was given as a symbol of their unchangeableness, genuineness, and stability.

The stone had been of much interest to geologists and was located about two miles east of Wilmington on the Infirmary farm, where it had been deposited by a huge glacier. It weighs twenty-five tons and contains one hundred thirty cubic feet of marble and puartz.

The Millstones

In the "Alpha," the W. C. annual publication of 1907, the old millstones were called "spoonholders"—times haven't changed so much. These stones were quarried in southeastern Ohio in 1830. They were brought across by oxen to a mill on Turtle's Creek, where for man y years they ground the corn and wheat which our grandfathers used. Then they lay for a long time in the yard of James Terrell and were brought to W. C. in 1894. Now, instead of grinding wheat, they hear and keep the secrets of boys and girls.

The Farewell

The hills are shadows, and they flow
From form to form, and nothing stands;
They melt like mist, the solid lands,
Like clouds they shape themselves and go.

But in my spirit will I dwell,
And dream my dream, and hold it true;
For though my lips may breathe adieu,
I cannot think the thing farewell.
